

LIBRARY NEWS

July 2021

Welcome to the seventh edition of the Gawler Library's Shelf Talk newsletter for 2021! We're so pleased you've grabbed yourself a copy and hope you enjoy all the good stuff we've packed inside for you to read.

If this is the first time you've read Shelf Talk, you can read previous copies by going to our website and downloading them as PDFs.

Last month we introduced you to Angie - our Library Technical Services Officer who works at the Gawler Public Library. For this issue, you will get to know more about one of our Library Casual Officers, Brooke. You may have seen her working at both our locations or on the customer service desk at the Gawler Administration Centre.

Meet Brooke...

Brooke has worked at the library for over two years now. She regularly works on the front desk at both our library locations assisting patrons with all their library related enquiries and anything else they need. Brooke's favourite parts of her job are the people and the books!! She also loves to go shopping, watch movies, read, cook, and travel in her spare time.

OFF THE SHELF

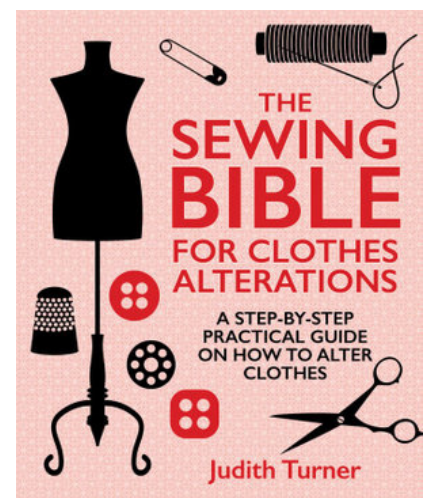

Winter time gives us the opportunity to explore indoor hobbies. Are you a sewer who'd like to develop your dressmaking skills or maybe this is a new hobby you'd like to start? We've got some fantastic resources in our collection, with many others able to be accessed through the One Card Network to explain the basics, and give you hints and tips to assist you with your fashionable creations.

"Draping is the art of using cotton muslin to create a fashion design directly on a mannequin. It is an essential skill for fashion designers."

With so many different terms and fabric choices, it's enough to make your head spin. The One Card Network resources will give you what you need to get your head around the basics and then move into more complex skills if you're interested.

Maybe you just want to modify or use your wardrobe better? You can use the book on the right to learn the alteration sewing skills to re-use what you're not currently wearing to alter your own clothes and give them new life!

Use the QR code on the left or the link below to search our catalogue for more dressmaking resources here: <https://bit.ly/3gxp9Ri>

BORROW BAGS

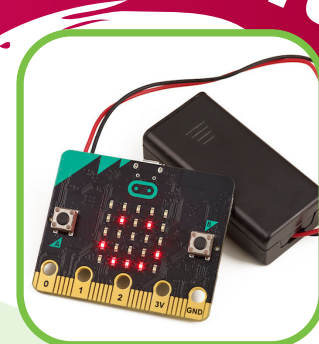

During 2020, as a response to the pandemic making in-person programming impossible, we came up with the idea to create Borrow Bags to give our library community the opportunity to try something new with borrowed equipment. So in August 2020, we put together our original set of Borrow Bags for adults; Crochet and for children; Egg Science. We had such a fantastic response from our community and they became so popular, we decided to redo them the following month with a different theme and so on. We have now had 10 different themed bags each for adults and children. We knew there were many of our library community who were disappointed they missed out on various themes, so it was decided to gradually add them to our permanent collection.

These Borrow Bags will provide you with an opportunity to start a new interest, learn something new, or brush up on some lost skills.

Each bag contains borrowable equipment, with instructions, reading lists and some consumables for you to keep. Borrow Bags will be able to be borrowed for 4 weeks. Visit the library to see our permanent Borrow Bags.

EVENING READS

The last house on Needless Street

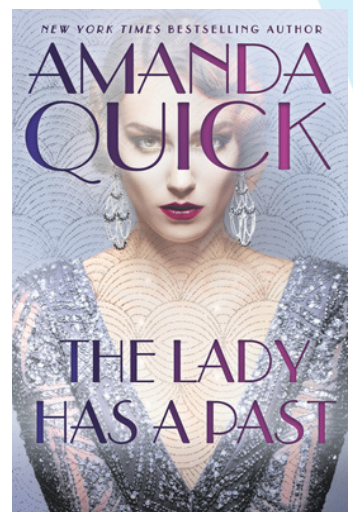

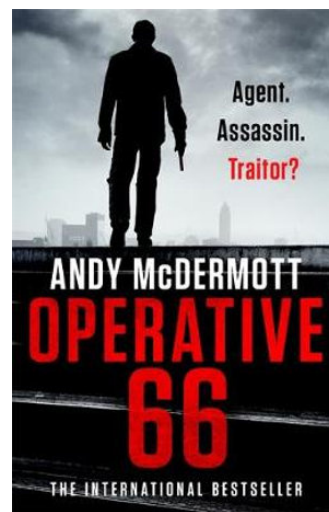

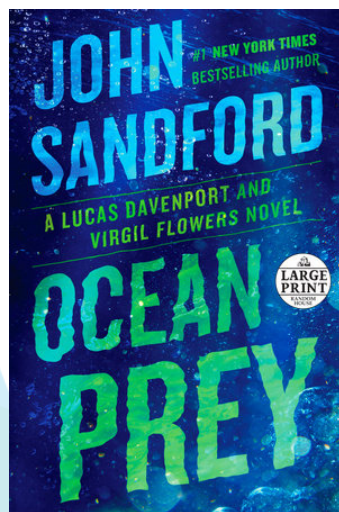

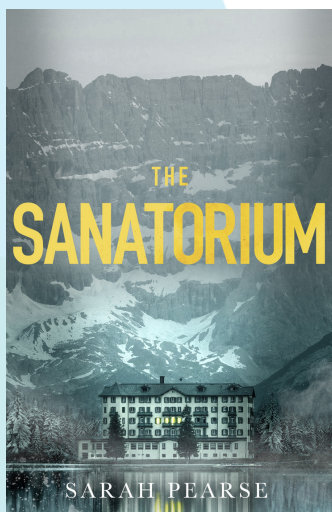

Catriona Ward

This is the story of a murderer. A stolen child. Revenge. This is the story of Ted, who lives with his daughter Lauren and his cat Olivia in an ordinary house at the end of an ordinary street. All these things are true. And yet some of them are lies. You think you know what's inside the last house on Needless Street. You think you've read this story before. In the dark forest at the end of Needless Street, something lies buried.

Mindful Journaling

Have you had a busy, chaotic week? Do you feel like you're constantly going at full speed with no reprieve? This can have drastic negative effects on your physical health, your mental state, and your relationships. Winter time is also a time that we tend to become more introverted and hide from the cold weather, and unintentionally also people. Learn to embrace your quiet, slow moments and develop your self-care and personal growth so you can work on the most important relationship of all - the one with yourself. One of the best ways to refresh yourself and find some inner calm is to expel stress, anxiety, or harmful thoughts through writing or journalling, a literal way of drawing out the bad and storing it someplace other than your body or mind.

Think of this session as a 'slow moment' in your week. A slow moment is anything you can do to slow down and feel calm. Hopefully you can find the opportunity to create more slow moments in your month, week or day. If you're not feeling up to adding to your journal, you could try other types of slow moments such as; baking, listening/playing music, knitting/crocheting, walking, taking a bath or our personal favourite - reading a book. All these things give you time to think and may give you inspiration to add to your journal. Use your phone to slow down by listening to music, or taking photos of little things you find in your day. The lyrics you find that speak to you can be written into your journal and you can print the photos that you've taken.

The article reached by the QR code to the right has 44 prompts, examples, exercises and ideas to help you get stuck into your journalling!

100 YEARS OF Agatha Christie STORIES

HarperCollins

You've likely heard or seen the name before, Agatha Christie. She's referred to as the 'Queen of Crime' and is synonymous with murder mysteries. With 100 years of Agatha Christie being celebrated in 2020, it's doubtful her books will be going out of style anytime soon! Agatha wrote under the pseudonym Mary Westmacott, writing six semi-autobiographical titles, with her actual name remaining a secret for almost 20 years! She has published 66 crime novels, 6 non-crime novels, 150 short stories and created the world's longest-running play – The Mousetrap. Her first detective novel was written after a bet made with her sister, Madge. The Mysterious Affair made Agatha £25.

In the Gawler Library collection we have over 200 items related to Agatha Christie, so you're bound to find something to pique your interest whether it's a physical copy in regular or large print or through our digital collection as an audiobook or ebook.

"What can I say at seventy-five? 'Thank God for my good life, and for all the love that has been given to me.'"

MAGAZINE HIGHLIGHT

Written by Angie

Aboriginal Way is a quarterly publication, produced in Adelaide by South Australian Native Title Services. The news and stories are available online, in print or via Aboriginal Way radio.

The stories are for, and about South Australian Aboriginal Communities, and is distributed to 10,000 people across South Australia and the Northern Territory, including Aboriginal community members and each school in South Australia.

In the Autumn 2021 issue of Aboriginal Way, you can read about the ongoing efforts to address, and end, Aboriginal deaths in custody, the native titles journey, the Juukan Gorge destruction update, culturally appropriate accommodation provided to Aboriginal tertiary students, learn about Aboriginal bush food, get to know South Australian of the year, Tanya Hosch, and see some exhibits which are on display in the Mabo exhibition at the Port Pirie Regional Art Gallery.

You can subscribe to Aboriginal Way free via their website, or drop into the library and have a look at one of our copies.

NAIDOC Week is on again beginning 4th until 11 July. Why not come into the library and read our copy of Aboriginal Way, or browse the display of items we will have available to borrow.

We also have NAIDOC themed painting Borrow Bags available at both our libraries.

If they're out on loan, just ask us for a copy of the colouring-in sheet for you to complete at home.

TECH TIPS

How safe is your password?

If you're too nervous to use or learn technology because of all the terrible stories you've heard about scams and other dodgy dealings on the internet, be assured there is support available to assist you if you need help. But you do need to take steps to protect yourself while you are online.

The Be Connected website is a fantastic resource for people who'd like an introduction to the basics of technology and safe online usage. It's also great for anyone who might like a refresher, especially as technology changes so very fast, you do need to keep yourself up to date with recommendations.

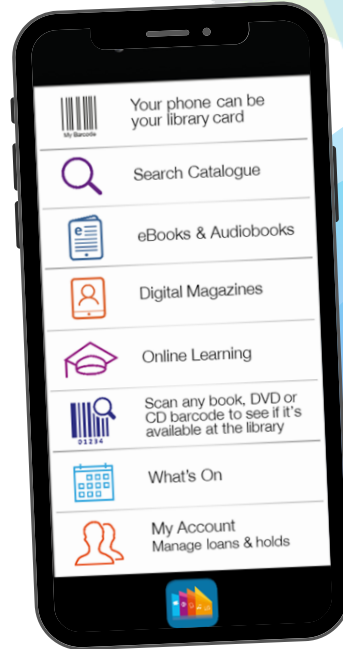

Use one password per website

Using the same password on multiple websites is also not recommended.

It may be hard to remember many passwords for different sites, but don't be tempted to have just one password for them all. If someone guesses that one password, they may be able to access all your online accounts, not just one.

Learn about online safety with easy to follow tutorials that have simple graphics and videos that help you understand the complexities of the online world. Password safety is explained with helpful suggestions on how to create your own passwords that are easy for you to remember but less likely to be guessed by malicious sites. You can find a helpful course on the website which will guide you through the process of creating a safe password. Just search for 'password' when you're on Be Connected and it will display to you all the courses that are related to password safety.

PLASTIC-FREE JULY

WHAT'S IN A WORD

Would you like to help millions of people be part of the solution to plastic pollution? We can have a brighter future for our Earth by making our streets, oceans, and communities cleaner.

Plastic Free July® is the global movement to clean up through the choices and effort of millions of people worldwide. Will you be part of Plastic Free July by choosing to refuse single-use plastics?

The website for Plastic Free July is a wealth of fantastic resources and ideas to get you started on your mission to reduce single-use plastic waste everyday at home, work, school, and even at your local café.

Plastic Free July has seen over 326 million participants in 177 countries over its lifetime. Many people, making small changes, will collectively make a massive difference to our communities. Why not refuse single-use plastics in July? You can even find great alternatives through our Information Session in the library this month, that can possibly become new habits forever.

www.plasticfreejuly.org

The recent wild and woolly weather gives us reason to explore and use a host of winter words.

Lazy Wind: a bitterly cold wind, too lazy to go around you so it cuts through you instead.

Doona Day: a sanctioned sickie or mental health day in which you slop about the house in pyjamas and snuggle up on the couch with your doona.

One-dog night: a cold night on the dog scale that runs from one dog to five. This piece of slang arose from the bushmen's practise of sleeping with their dogs. The colder the night the more dogs needed to stay warm.

Brumous: of grey skies and winter days filled with heavy cloud and fog.

Psithurism: listening to the wind in the trees. From the Greek word, psithouro which means 'to whisper'.

Psychrophilic: thriving at a relatively low temperature.

Apricity: the warmth of the winter sun.

Snowbird: one who goes to a warmer region for the winter.

Communities around the globe are concerned about plastic ending up in landfill and polluting the oceans — that's why 120 million people worldwide are choosing to be part of Plastic Free July

Artwork: Care for Country by Maggie-Jean Douglas (Sibbi Oubli)

When creating 'Care for Country' I kept in mind that this resonates spiritually, physically, emotionally, socially and culturally - I chose to create a bright and vibrant artwork that included the different colours of the land but showed how they come together in our beautiful country and to make people feel hopeful for the future. I've included commentaries (people, animals and bush medicines) spread over different landscapes of red dirt, green grass, bush land and coastal areas to tell the story of the many ways country can and has healed us throughout our lives and journeys.

FAMILY READING

Written by Angie

Reading a book with your child before bedtime is a lovely way to wind down for evening sleep, and a great opportunity to spend quality time together. There are plenty of other ways to incorporate reading into your day, for those days when bedtime gets too busy!

Whilst preparing the family meal, ask your child to read the recipe to you. This will teach the child about food, measuring ingredients, and cooking methods and they may be more interested in eating the meal if they played a part in creating it.

During mealtime, 'invite' a guest book character to dinner and discuss what you might cook for them, such as making a cheese soufflé for Geronimo Stilton or minty grass and hot chocolate for Willie Wonka.

Sing! Download songs and lyrics and have a family karaoke night! Reading and singing words at the same time is an excellent way for children to improve their vocabulary, and they will have a great time doing so!

Utilize video conferencing platforms such as Skype and ask family, close friends, or even your child's friends, to read a story to the child or have the child read to them! Choose a story your child is familiar with, and they will be proud to show off their reading skills to loved ones in faraway places!

OVERHEARD IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Mummy, I'm hungry.
I need a book!

Billy won't want it.
He doesn't even like dragons.

Ice-cream or a book?
Can't I have both?

I don't want Ellie to borrow it.
She'll use up all the story.

Yes, I do need a wee.
But I have to finish this chapter.

I don't like the pictures.
They're not the pictures in my head.

I can't tell if I like it.
I haven't got to the end yet.

I don't care if it's shut.
I want to come tomorrow anyway.
